partnered with

MELLON STUD VENTURES

on the acquisition of

Seneca Partners, acting as an independent sponsor, is pleased to announce that it has partnered with Mark Stulga and Mellon Stud Ventures on the acquisition of Thompson Fabricating. Founded in 1993 and based in Wheatland, Pennsylvania, Thompson Fabricating is a premium manufacturer of a variety of waste containers including roll offs, hook lifts, and other body styles.

The acquisition of Thompson Fabricating marks Seneca's 15th platform investment since 2017 and 11th current portfolio company. Seneca Partners is actively searching for and assessing add on acquisition candidates for Thompson Fabricating, so if you or anyone in your network are aware of opportunities in the broader waste container manufacturing industry, please reach out to Chris Scagnetti at chriss@senecapartners.com.

About Us

Seneca Partners is an active, partnership focused private equity independent sponsor based in Detroit, Michigan that specializes in lower-middle market opportunities. Seneca works closely with family offices, institutional capital partners, and high-net-worth investors to invest in profitable businesses based in the U.S. and Canada. Our focus is on businesses where Seneca can play an active board role to add value, as well as industries where we and our partners have a deep understanding of the dynamics, trends, and potential growth strategies. Seneca primarily pursues industrial services, business services, and manufacturing companies, however, opportunistically evaluates industries outside of this scope as well. Seneca's deals are typically in the range of $3M - $20M+ of EBITDA and are most often proprietary or identified through limited processes, including transactions originated by other independent sponsors (7 of Seneca's 11 portfolio companies have another independent sponsor involved).

If you are a capital partner interested in Seneca's deal flow or an independent sponsor interested in collaborating with Seneca on a future transaction, please contact Eddy Mollison at eddym@senecapartners.com.
